Hi! I had similar issue in my 2006 Corolla. Weird rear brake noise. Replaced shoes and surfaced the drums first. Noise disappeared for about a week and then gradually returned. Then I installed new shoes and drums - the same story - noise returned. Took the car to the shop and they replaced shoes and drums again - no help.

I recently replaced the rear drums and brakes on my corolla and the car was fine the first day. The following morning it started making a clunk noise coming from the rear end of the vehicle. I have taken apart the brakes and the drums and have adjusted the brakes many times and it still continues to make the clunking noise.
