Fiat would've been unwise to mess with the 500's shape too much, so sensibly, they've kept exterior styling tweaks to the minimum with this 500 model over the last few years. As before, there's a single three-door bodystyle, though you can order it in soft-topped '500C' form if you like the idea of having an electric fabric-folding roof.

Fiat 500 has blossomed in Australia in the last 18 months or so. Instead of being a rarity it's now part of the everyday city automotive scene. After several years of nothing much happening Fiat's head office in Italy took over the Australian operation in the middle of 2013. The company's new Australian chief, Veronica Johns, made the bold decision to slash prices to grab market share.
